The moss life-cycle starts with a haploid spore that germinates to produce a protonema (pl. protonemata), which is either a mass of thread-like filaments or thalloid (flat and thallus-like). Massed moss protonemata typically look like a thin green felt, and may grow on damp soil, tree bark, rocks, concrete, or almost any other reasonably stable surface.

Special forest products are plant materials like seeds, berries, greenery, mushrooms, and seedlings. Firewood used to heat people’s homes is also considered a special forest product; in fact the BLM sells between 30,000 to 40,000 cords of firewood every year. Special forest products found on public lands may be harvested for recreation, personal use, or as a source of income.

John Keats was born in London on 31 October 1795, the eldest of Thomas and Frances Jennings Keats’s four children. Although he died at the age of twenty-five, Keats had perhaps the most remarkable career of any English poet. He published only fifty-four poems, in three slim volumes and a few magazines. But over his short development he took on the challenges of a wide range of poetic forms ...

BABASSU BRINGS A BETTER LIFE . Women have been gathering the nuts of the babassu tree in Maranhão (Mah-rah-NAH-oh), Brazil, for generations. Mothers teach their teenage daughters how to break each side of the hard babassu nut and remove the seeds to sell, because it’s a time-honored way for women in remote rural areas to earn income for their families.
